SERVANT LEADER NETWORK

1. INTRODUCTION & INVITATION TO THE
LCC SERVANT LEADER NETWORK

What is SLN?

The Servant Leader Network (SLN) is essentially an "intranet" (an internal website) for the people of LCC. Both formal and informal groups can be created by users to enable discussion, document sharing, event planning, and more within these groups. Almost all of the content on the site is available only to those who have an account and who are signed in. A very small amount of public-facing content may be created by administrators, but all user-created content will be visible only to those who are signed in to the site. User accounts will be moderated; those who sign up for an account must have their account manually approved. Through the convention organizing committee, the Board of Directors has established SLN as the platform by which all delegates can discuss convention issues with each other. This type of forum was suggested as part of the evaluation of the 2017 convention submitted by delegates.

What is the purpose of SLN?

The Servant Leader Network is intended to build a "digital bridge" over the vast geography of our Synod and enable people to grow closer together as we serve alongside one another within LCC. For the purposes of LCC's 2020 Special Convention, a group has been designated within the Servant Leader Network to provide a centralized place to discuss Special Convention matters.

Where do I sign up?

Sign up at https://servantleader.network. Your account will be reviewed within a day or so and, once approved, you'll be able to sign in and join the LCC Special Convention Group at https://servantleader.network/sc2020 (Please note that, if you try to visit the Special Convention Group page when you are not signed in, you will be redirected to the sign-in page. Once registered and signed in, you can go directly to the SC2020 Group link.
